

I see NABs concerns similar to those of cable companies who did not want satellite disk providers to be able to broadcast local TV channels. After years of debate and legal wrangling, disk providers now provide local channels. Why go through it all again at the taxpayers expense. Competition is good, and usually leads to decreased costs and improved services.